Farm Management Expert Analyzes Poultry Business

Poultrymen were told Monday night they have been putting too much emphasis on eggs per bird and overlooking other factors that might return a greater net profit

James Hall, farm management specialist from the Pennsylvania State University told the 75 persons at the annual meeting of the Lancaster County Poultry Association that the top five money making flocks out of 32 flocks in a comprehensive record analysis did not necessarily have the highest net return Records on the 32 farms throughout the state showed a net loss of 0 3 cents a dozen on all eggs produced last year, but the top five flocks returned 2.8 to 7 5 cents a dozen for management after all labor costs were charged at $1 25 per hour.

He listed five factors that contributed to the high returns to the top five flocks They were high feed efficiency (4 3 to 4 6 pounds of feed per dozen eggs), good labor efficiency (1 3 to 1 6 minutes per dozen); better than average prices, low

Milk Co-op Official Lauds Milk Control Commission

Without the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission, many county dairymen would be without markets or at least would have to take much lower prices for their milk, dairymen were told Thursday.

Dr. James E Honan, manager of the Interstate Milk Producers Cooperative, speaking at the annual banquet of the Quarryville and Southern Lancaster County locals, cited the example of two milk companies in New Jersey which notified producers they did not need any more milk because they could buy it cheaper from out of state This could happen in Pennsylvania, he said, "I hope it does not."

He said we still have an over supply of milk but he does not "look for the Federal Government to make a move toward production controls", but the thought of controling production needs to be considered.

Seedsmen See Shortages Of Clover and Alfalfa

Drought conditions in Lancaster County last summer combined with adverse conditions in seed producing areas in the West to create what may be the most serious legume seed shortage in a decade.

If reports from seed houses around the county are accurate, Pennscott red clover and several of the more popular lines of alfalfa are in extremely short supply with orders running well ahead of last year.

Most of the seed suppliers in the county are urging farmers to survey seed needs now and place orders early or be satisfied with the forced substitutions.

We surveyed several of the major seed suppliers in the county to find out just how the local situation stands at present

Following is what they had to say

FLOYD IMES, Manager of Seed Operations Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative Ass'n.

At present we have a pretty decent supply of alfalfa seed with the exception of DuPuits which is controlled by Northrup King We are recommending Orchies, another Flemish type, which has looked very good in tests during the last two years. The state experiment station will release no data on a line until it has been under tests for three years, but we feel it is a good substitute for DuPuits We will have enough of this to supply the demand.

With Pennscott red clover we had to allot early orders We now have 20,000 pounds on hand, so we are in good shape, but not really in long supply

Everything in the grass line appears to be ample There is a lot of rye grass around Pennlawn red fescue and Kentucky 31 tall fescue are in short supply and unusually high in price

Farmers should be warned to be on the look out for poor timothy seed There is some timothy seed around with low germination rates We don't want it and we don't want farmers to use it What we are afraid will happen is that they will use up the good seed first and some of this poor seed will find its wa yinto the trade

Seed orders from local Farm Bureau associations appear to be running well ahead of last year on alfalfa, clover and grass Corn seed is about even with last year

Although we had a drought last year, we had a better corn crop than we anticipated Some of the growers in Lehigh Lebanon, Fulton, Lycoming and Clinton Counties used irrigation I believe we will be able to take care of our orders 100 per cent There may be some farmers who still have to substitute some lines, but we have logical substitutes for all varieties

The seed we are long on were procured before the short-

Sheep Not enough on sale to establish a market.

New Holland reported a slow and barely steady market on Wednesday's dairy cattle sale. There were 102 cows, seven bulls and 23 heifers.

Fresh Holstein cows brought $275-400; Guernseys $175-225, and other breeds $175-225. Stock bulls brought $140-180.

At the January 21 auction of horses, ponies and mules, the 210 head met a steady market. Mules by the pair brought $300-560. Pony mares were $75-95 and geldings were $40-75.

The 418 hogs sold steady to 25 higher at the January 21 auction. Retail hogs to local butchers brought 18 to 19.50. Wholesale hogs to the packers were 17.25 to 18. Hogs over 250 pounds and under 175 brought 15 to 17. Nine shoats were $10.50 peh head.

The 100 calves at the January 21 sale brought steady prices. Choice and prime were 37-42, good and low choice 33-37, standard 25-32 and common 17-26.

Feeder calves should be wormed as they are placed in the feed lot. The calves usually will show increased feed efficiency after worming.

Prices Advance Quarter Cent

Live broiler prices continued to advance approximately a quarter cent during the 24 hour period ending 10:30 Friday morning A good demand took the moderate offerings

Ready to cook demand was spotty ranging fair to good Estimated slaughter for the week end was 751,000 head compared to the 749,000 head last week end.

Prices ranged 15 6 to 17 4 for the 1,096,200 head at farms during the period. Prices and reported purchases include 522,500 head purchased at Thursday's sale at the Eastern Shore Poultry Growers Exchange

The Delmarva broiler-feed ratio for the week ending January 18 was steady with the previous week at 3 1 Broilers averaged 14 99 and mash cost the grower $97 94 per ton. The ratio for the comparable week a year ago was 3 8 when broilers averaged 17.89 and mash cost $93.11 per ton.

No "Hand-Me-Downs"

Don't be tempted to hand down outgrown shoes to a younger child, cautions Bernice Tharp, Penn State extension clothing specialist. No two pairs of feet are exactly alike. A good leather shoe, when new, will conform to a child's foot after he wears it a week or two. Once the shoe is molded to the foot it won't change. If another child wears the shoe, his tender feet is apt to be twisted and turned to fit the shape of the shoe.

More Than Money

Every time you consider a major purchase, look ahead to see what it's going to mean in terms of what you have or what you do. Think in terms of how it fits into your overall family plan, advises Helen Bell extension home management specialist at Penn State. Ask yourself if the purchase will give your family more satisfaction than any other item you might buy with the same money. A "yes" answer means you have made a wise choice.

From Where We Stand . . .

I've Heard That Song Before

There was a popular song several years ago that went, "It seems to me I've heard that song before."

Some farmers adopt this as a theme song every season about this time of year when the seed salesmen begin to put in an appearance on the farms. Every year they hear the same theme—to wit, "Order your seeds early to be sure you get the variety you want."

And most years a lot of it is just sales talk. Most years there are seeds aplenty, and the old song is just another of the tricks of the trade We are not saying that the philosophy is wrong. We believe it is a good idea to plan ahead and order early to fill your needs.

But this year, it appears that the song has more basis in fact than it has had for a long time. It seems that there is less sales pitch, less fantasy, less crowding in the corridors of the sales rooms, and more sincere concern for shortages of some lines, among the seedsmen.

The shortages appear to be most critical in the popular lines of alfalfa and in Pennscott red clover, but if these shortages do become severe, and farmers are forced to use other grasses and legumes as substitutes, these varieties may become scarce too.

Poor seed producing conditions in the Western seed growing areas during the past season, along with the short supplies of forages in the Northwestern part of the United States may exhaust the current supply of the most popular varieties.

But the current season's crop will be only one phase of the problem The farmer who has to substitute a less desirable alfalfa for the variety which does best on his farm will be making hay from that variety for several years.

Even if you have heard the old song before, and even though you are fed up to the eyes with it, this is a good year to do what the seed salesmen have been urging you to do all along. Order early to be sure you get the varieties you want.

At least that's how it looks from where we stand.

Income Tax

More pencils will be worn out on farms, more midnight oil will be burned and more frantic figuring will be done in the next few weeks than at any other time during the year.

The annual accounting to Uncle Sam for the profits you made or didn't make during the past year is fast approaching.

One change this year, we believe more than passing interest for many of the farmers in the county.

The "investment credit" allowance was revised under the revenue act of 1962. The changes are explained in the Farmer's Tax Guide now available, but we believe some points bear stressing.

First, the changes allow farmers and businessmen that purchased certain types of depreciable property to take a tax deduction equal to seven per cent of the purchase price.

To qualify for the deduction, the property must have a useful life of at least four years, and to get the seven per cent allowance, the property must have a useful life of eight years.

But we believe that the most important part of the provision is that the investment credit is deducted from the farmer's tax liability—the amount owed after the tax is figured.

The tax guide also contains the new rates for detehmining depreciation of farm machinery. The tables replace the old charts which were compiled before the era of "high speed" farming.

Another feature of the tax law includes farmers in the section for partial tax deductible pension plans for self-employed persons.

Every farmer, whether he figures his own tax return or pays someone else to do it for him, should become thoroughly familiar with the new tax rulings. Study of the Farmer's Tax Guide could be the most profitable time you spent all winter.

At least that's how it looks from where we stand.

Truth In Stories

Lesson for January 27, 1963

SOMETIMES Jesus spoke in plain blunt words. At other times He told stories. Of the two forms His teaching took, people have always remembered and loved the stories rather than the bare direct assertions. Mark, in fact, says with exaggeration we can easily understand, that Jesus said nothing in public that was not a parable. The reader will find even in Jesus' simplest statements something of parable and of poetry.

Dr. Foreman

What strikes many a person as odd is not that Jesus told stories as His favorite way of making a point. Many others have used the same method. The odd feature is the reason that Jesus gave, why He used parables so much. Most people would think that putting truth into stories would make it easier to take.

"—at lowly doors"

Now there is some truth in that There is a patented device for administering medicine, called by the drug company manufacturing it, a "spansule." Everybody has taken capsules; that's a fairly large dose at once. If a patient is allergic to capsules, if a strong medicine makes him sick, or if he has to take several kinds of medicine, then the spansule may be just the thing, for it is filled with various kinds of medicine, and some take much longer to melt than others, so the "spansule" is a neat way of giving medicine half the day or longer, in many doses, but all at once.

Parables are a little like that. The parable is a spansule: it is easily swallowed, and the patient doesn't realize how long it will stick with him. He keeps remembering the parable, and thinking about it, and while it may need some time before the man can absorb the new truth into his system, the parable stays there; in his memory, it keeps talking to him, and finally he accepts the truth—indeed it may seem as if he had always known it—which he would have rejected if it had been presented to him (as it were) raw. The poet Tennyson long ago remarked that

"Truth embodied in a tale
Shall enter in at lowly doors."

Truth unpersuasive

Oh, it doesn't always act like that. Some men resist truth no matter how it comes to them. Put the truth bluntly, and they will say NO. Put the truth in a tale, a poem, a parable, and they will say, Nonsense!

But what has all this got to do with Jesus? Simply that He gave an unexpected answer to the question why He used parables; in fact, He gave the answer before any one got around to asking Him why. He told stories, He seems to have said, to keep people from understanding what He meant. He "seems to have said," but probably was sarcastic in saying it, that if He did not speak in parables somebody might believe Him! Now we know that Jesus wanted of all things to be taken seriously, to be believed; and we cannot think it like Him to keep people deliberately from knowing the truth that might save them.

And why not?

We must recall the conditions under which Jesus taught. There were the immense crowds, always there; and there the few true disciples. Jesus had to interest the disciples, and interest others in becoming disciples, and at the same time wear down the curiosity-seeking crowds. The parable would do both. Some would find the stories just silly or childish, and they would lose interest. Some would find those simple tales amazingly fascinating, and would stay around to learn just what Jesus meant.

The question still remains, why do some people listen well, some badly and some not at all? Jesus said it was like a man sowing seed on different kinds of soil. The seed may be always the same; but some sprouts and dies, some never sprouts at all, and some brings forth a great harvest. Truth is a seed, and the harvest can be great . . . or it can be nothing. It depends on the kind of person the listener is. God never makes a person believe. Thought-control is an ambition of dictators and tyrants. God offers truth to all; but only "he that hath an ear" will pay much attention.

age developed We knew last fall we were having good movement on Vernal Alfalfa and we ordered extra to take care of any shortage

We have already increased our orders for sorghum supplies to meet the demand for emergency forage crops Hybrid sorghum-sudan crosses look very good for emergency pasture, green chop or hay

Soybeans appear to be in short supply everywhere

TONY BIESIOT, Manager
Pfister Associated Growers, Lancaster

Farmers are always told to book early to insure that they get the varieties they want, but, 'this year we are not kidding." That is the true picture

We have bought long in anticipation of the shortage Perhaps other seed suppliers have done the same Come spring, there may not be as serious a shortage as we expect It may be partly scare tactics on the part of suppliers, but there some definite shortages

Good quality legume material is practically non-existant at present I suppose second quality material of lower purity and lower germination will probably be available

I talked with our West Coast supplier, Tayler-Wescott San Francisco, on Monday (January 21) and he said all the major lines of alfalfa are sold out.

Buffalo alfalfa is non-existant. The F D. — 100 (a Flemish type exclusive with P.A.G. in the United States) is sold out.

Pennscott red clover is definitely unavailable Alsike clover is still available, mammoth and medium red clover are still available and appear to be in fair supply.

Western production facilities went all to pieces the past few years More acres were planted last year but less seed was harvested Frost in Nebraska and extremely hot weather during pollination in some areas cut the production

Most corn hybrids are in good supply. Single cross material, which has received good acceptance with the farmers will probably sell out. Bookings of single cross lines in major corn belt areas have doubled each year for five consecutive years to a point where in some areas the sale of single crosses is over 50 per cent of the total sales

To Operate Milking Machines Properly

Many dairymen attempt to operate too many milking machines at one time and therefore allow the milkers on too long. Most men cannot operate more than two units along with properly preparing the next cow and then need help in carrying the milk to the milkhouse The machine tugging on a dry udder will cause irritation and bring on udder trouble.

To Open Field Drainage Lines

Land owners with tile drain installations should be sure that the outlets are open and not under silt or water. If the outlet to the drainage system is not open and free-flowing, then the tile will silt shut and the system will be worthless. A few minutes with a shovel to permit the water to get away easily will lengthen the life of the system.

To Install Large Septic Tanks

All disposal systems should be designed to handle larger amounts of water and waste; the trend in every home and on most farm is toward the greater use of water for many purposes A 1000-gallon septic tank should be the minimum size for the average home and even larger tanks for the dairy farm. Drain fields in several directions should be dug to handle the liquid overflow. Special Circular is available.

To Shovel Snow Slowly

Snow shoveling has been fat to many people in the past; this can be attributed to excess effort when not accustomed to it, by shoveling too fast, or by shoveling after eating. If snow must be moved by hand labor, take it easy by shoveling slow, and rest often. Most of us are just not used to this kind of strenuous work.

able to buy alfalfa this spring, but if he waits until he is ready to sow, he may be wasting his time discussing varieties.

DuPutis is in the worst situation. Our current price list going out with our catalog will not list it, but we have good replacements Cody alfalfa is replacing Buffalo, and the farmers might as well not be able to buy Buffalo much longer. Haymor is a good replacement for DuPuits. Cayuga will be available, and Cornell Experiment Station recommends it very highly.

Pennscott red clover is in very short supply. The clover seed producing areas of Oregon and Washington are now growing alfalfa seed because it makes then more money. Except for Pennscott and Chesapeake, there will be plenty of red clover around, but it may cost a little more.

There will be grass seed for everybody. I don't see any lower prices for any of these seeds. I see nothing for a farmer to gain price wise by waiting to order.

Sudan and sorghum crosses are increasing in demand, but I wouldn't say last year's dry weather has everybody flocking in to buy them There will be some planting of emergency crops

Corn seed supplies are adequate We have a better supply of the newer and better varieties, and are well situated with G-96 which won the 1962 state five-acre corn contest Sales are well above last year at this time.

Appetite "Tempters"

By Mrs. Richard C. Spence

This is the time of year when there are two types of appetites homemakers have to cope with, lagging appetites and hungry appetites. Cold, crisp weather seems to give a boost to the appetites of those who have to spend a lot of time outdoors, either by choice or necessity.

For those who spend much of their time indoors over the winter months and don't get too hungry because of lack of exercise, meals must be tempting enough to satisfy their body's daily needs and keep up resistance. Now is the-time for the homemaker to experiment with some new menus and recipes to add some zip to the nutritional needs of her family Take this menu as a suggestion:

SAUSAGE MACARONI BAKE
Green Beans
Cabbage-Apple Salad
Toasted Raisin Bread
Butter
White Cake with Butterscotch Frosting
Milk or Coffee

SAUSAGE MACARONI BAKE

8 ounces elbow macaroni
1 pound bulk pork sausage
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup thinly sliced carrots (3 or 4 carrots)
½ cup diced celery
½ cup enriched flour
2 tablespoons instant minced onion
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
½ cup crushed potato chips

Cook macaroni in boiling water until tender, 6 to 8 minutes. Meanwhile, break up pork sausage and brown in skilet. Drain well. Melt butter or margarine in large saucepan. Add carrots and celery. Cook over moderate heat 5 minutes or until carrots are almost tender. Blend together flour, onion, mustard and salt. Add to butter mixture stirring to form a smooth paste. Add milk gradually, and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Drain macaroni. Blend together macaroni, sausage and sauce Turn into lightly greased 2-quart casserole. Sprinkle crushed potato chips over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

This easy, penny-saving combination, Chili Vegetable Omelet, features eggs, ground beef and Cheddar cheese — three extremely nourishing protein-rich foods. The eggs go into the airy golden omelet that's first cooked on top of the range and then baked in the oven The ground beef and cheese are in the spoonover sauce along with the vegetables.

CHILI VEGETABLE OMELET

4 egg yolks
4 egg whites
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter

Beat egg yolks until very thick. Beat egg whites until frothy; add water and salt; beat until peaks fold over. Fold egg yolks into egg whites. Meanwhile melt butter in 10-inch skillet over medium heat With spatula level omelet mixture into skillet, spreading higher at sides; reduce heat to low Cook about 8 minutes or until puffed and set and lightly brown on bottom. Transfer skillet to oven. Bake about 10 minutes in a 350 degree oven or until top is lightly browned and knife comes out clean when inserted in center. Loosen sides of omelet. Make shallow cut across omelet at right edge to skillet handle; fold over and transfer to warm serving dish. Top omelet with hot Chili Vegetable Sauce and serve at once.

CHILI VEGETABLE SAUCE

- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 pound ground beef
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
- 1 cup coarsely cut tomatoes
- 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

In a skillet melt butter; add onion, green pepper, celery and garlic, saute until vegetables become translucent Remove to 2-quart saucepan. Brown meat in skillet; add to vegetables. Stir in chili powder, pepper, tomato sauce and tomatoes, simmer until tomatoes are tender Just before serving, add cheese and gently stir until cheese melts. Spoon over omelet. 6 servings.

BARBECUED RIBS AND SPAGHETTI

- 2 pounds pork spareribs
- 4 cups water
- 1¾ cups tomato sauce (2 8-ounce cans)
- 1½ cups water
- ¼ cup light brown sugar
- ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons salt
- Dash Tabasco
- 1 onion, cut in ⅛-inch slices
- 1 lemon, cut in ⅛-inch slices
- 8 ounces thin spaghetti

Cut spareribs into 2-rib portions Place in large sauce pan with 4 cups water. Bring to boil and simmer, covered, 1 hour Combine tomato sauce, 1½ cups water, brown sugar, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, salt and Tabasco in saucepan. Bring to boil and simmer 30 minutes. Drain ribs Place meaty side up in roasting pan. Fasten 1 onion slice and 1 lemon slice on each portion with toothpick. Baste with sauce Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) 1 hour or until tender, basting ribs every 15 minutes with sauce. Add more water to sauce, if sauce becomes too thick. Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender, 8 to 10 minutes. Drain Remove ribs from sauce and set aside. Pour 1 cup sauce over spaghetti and toss lightly until spaghetti is coated. Arrange on serving platter Arrange spareribs over spaghetti Serve remaining sauce hot in serving dish. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

PORKIES IN SWEET SOUR SAUCE

- 1 pound pure pork sausage meat
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup drained, crushed pineapple
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- Pineapple juice with enough water to bring to 1¼ cups
- 3 tablespoon flour
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tabespoons brown sugar
- 3 to 4 cups cooked rice

Mix together sausage, egg, pineapple, and onion Form into balls or patties. Place in skillet Brown on all sides, turning gently Cook until pink color disappears. Drain. Blend pineapple juice, flour, lemon juice, and brown sugar. Pour over sausage Cover. Simmer 15 minutes or until sauce is thickened Serve hot over fluffy rice. 4 to 5 servings.

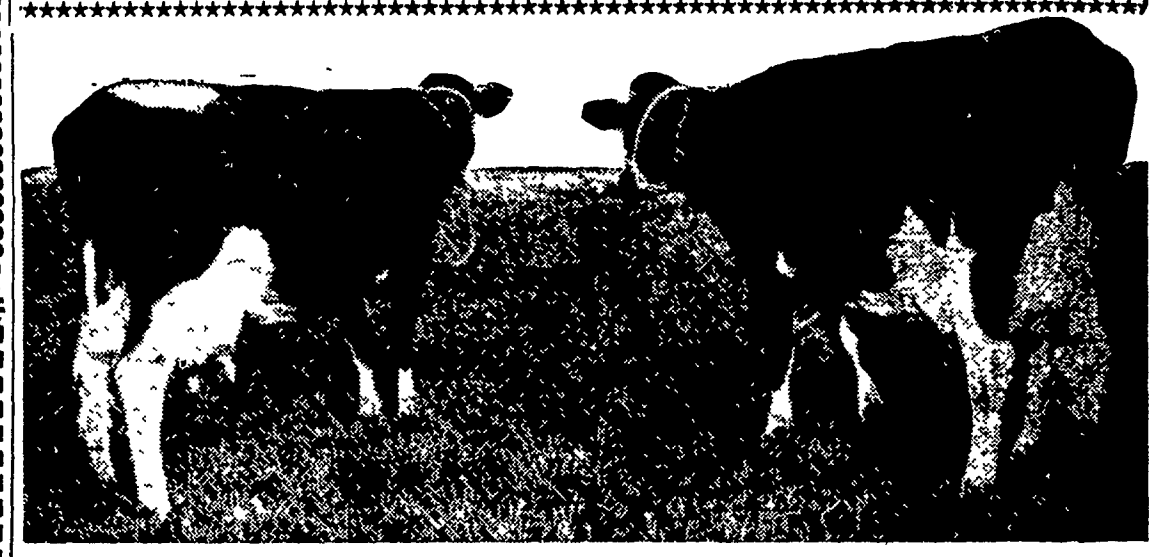
CHECKERBOARD

service bulletin

Which is the better cow?



YOU BE THE JUDGE!

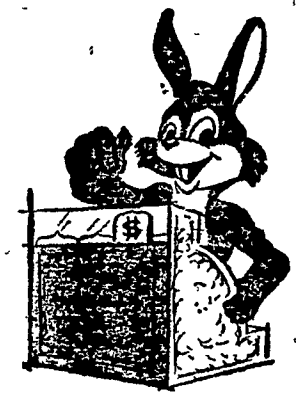
These two cows are from the Purina Dairy Center herd. They're about the same age. Each has calves regularly. Each has produced 15,000 lbs. of milk in her 10 months lactation.

THE COW ON THE LEFT should be the heavier producer, based on her bred-in ability. But she's too thin (because of the experiment she's been on). She's been producing at the expense of her own body.

Body condition is most important in keeping a herd milking at their peak year after year. Body condition depends on proper feeding during the dry period . . . and is maintained by feeding a good milking ration.

Ask us about Purina's Dairy Feeding Program . . . built by 34 years of research with thousands of cows. It's sure to help your cows give all the milk they're bred to give . . . to help you make top profits from your herd.

Rabbits Go Commercial

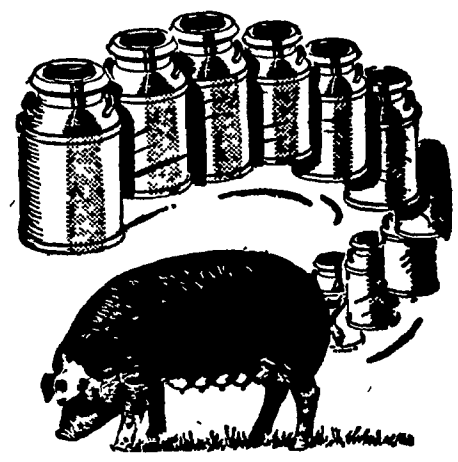


American housewives love variety in the meat counter at their supermarket and they'll pay for it, too!

The growing demand for delicious farm-raised, all-white rabbit meat creates a new commercial farm opportunity. Rabbit production, "The Purina Way" may be a sound, profitable (but not get-rich-quick) business; either part-time in the backyard or full-time on the farm.

Talk with your Purina salesman about this opportunity. If you raise rabbits now . . . feed Purina Rabbit Chow, developed at the modern 84-doe rabbitry on the Purina Research Farm, Gray Summit, Missouri.

Do You Know . . . Sows Produce 100 Gallons Of Milk Each Year



A brood sow is a factory — a "pig factory" — and she needs help to produce to capacity.

At the Purina Research Farm on the Purina Hog Program, sows each year produce more than 100 gallons of milk; wean 18 pigs; and maintain their own bodies. These are mighty big jobs.

Purina Sow Chow — fed with your grain — is designed and researched especially for these big jobs. Get Sow Chow at our store with the Checkerboard Sign.

mortality, and low building maintenance.

The top five flocks, he said were better mechanized than the average and had better than average housing.

In general, he said, the poultry flocks on the 32 farms returned a higher per cent on investment than the other enterprizes on the farm

In other business, Cleveland Hastings, treasurer, reported a net loss of $2,021 53 for the year Gross income for the year was $18,163.69 and gross expenses were $20,185.22.

However, the mortgage on the building was reduced from $18,250.00 to $10,000.00 during the year. This came about as the result of a $12,500 damage payment from the State Highways Department. A total of $8,250 was applied toward the mortgage.

The loss was the second in as many years, but was $1,665 - 30 less than the $3,686 83 deficit for the 1961 year.

Eight members were elected to the board of directors. Russell Mease and Richard Buss were elected to fill unexpired terms of members who have resigned. Benjaman Burkholder, New Holland and John Wolgemuth, Mount Joy, were elected to represent Allied Industry. Growers elected as representatives were Aaron Brubaker, 836 Rohrerstown Road; Lester Greiner, Manheim; John L. Herr, Manheim, and Carl Meck, Reinholds.

The meeting was held in the Lancaster County Poultry Center.

CAMERON LEGHORNS WIN

1961-62 PA. RANDOM SAMPLE TEST

We're glad we won, but it takes a lot of luck to beat out 47 other laying strains in any single test. But IT TAKES GOOD BREEDING to win a three-year high income award. Not just once . . . but twice! Of this we are especially proud.

Cameron Leghorns Are FIRST and ONLY layer chicks ever to earn a second three-year award in the history of the big, highly competitive Pennsylvania Random Test.

They EARN MORE! They COST LESS!

CONSISTENCY PLUS — No wonder some of the finest hatcherymen all across the nation are switching to Cameron-bred layers for their customers. We of the Keener Poultry farm are happy to announce our associate Hatchery with the Cameron Breed Leghorn Layers.
